A brief heads-up to let you know that the Vice President's energy task force is moving to policy formation. We will have an initial meeting on Monday, March 5 to get our guidance. Since the final report is due to the VP's office on March 14, however, we would like to get started now.

I've e-mailed a heads up to your analytical staffs, and we've set up meetings today with OPT and OTT. We'd be happy to do the same for the other offices later today (after 5:00) or tomorrow.

Subject: Energy Policy Discussion

All,

On Monday at 1:00, we will be meeting in room 7B-040 to begin the discussion of energy policy options for the national energy policy (phase 2 of our efforts). Joe will be sending out guidance for our discussion (probably on Friday). We have been encouraged by the Task Force to think broadly and creatively about policy options. The Task Force is aiming for March 14 to complete this phase.

Again, thank you all for your extreme efforts over the last two weeks and extra thanks to those who provided the last round of comments on the 2/26 version. We are very close to buttoning up the "interim report" - the two chapters describing the issues that we have been working on. Special kudos to RIA for their patience on all the fact checking (it ain't over - I'll be calling for some graphic help later today).
